

Camlink.com Offers a High-Speed Outlet for Singles to Meet Online

Camlink.com introduces a new way to link people together just in time for Valentine's Day

New York, NY Feb 5, 2008 – Camlink.com announced today the beta launch of its pioneering online platform designed to link singles together through live speed dating sessions. This unique and simple concept allows users to instantly connect with other singles through brief introductions via web cam or audio connection in a safe and exciting environment.

Camlink offers real-time interaction through a wide variety of live speed dating events giving active singles the opportunity to connect and communicate immediately. This eliminates the process of time-consuming profiles and long-awaited responses that singles typically experience from other Web sites in the online dating industry.

"We are excited to empower singles with a new, interactive outlet that saves them time and money," said Camlink co-founder and CEO Ilya Zatulovskiy. "Other online dating sites tend to have lengthy profiles and list photos that are 10 years earlier and 25 pounds lighter! In other words, we want our users to have a more personal and honest experience, which is why real-time chatting is perfect. Our process is straightforward, fast and free."

To link up, simply log on to www.camlink.com to create an account, then choose from an array of themed events. There is no software to download, so users are instantly set up and ready to mingle within a matter of seconds. Once the session begins, users rotate from one person to the next creating sparks along the way. To continue linking-up, users then choose their potential mate with the hope it's mutual and take it to the next level.
